Controlling costs

Scurri Connect gives you the bargaining power to negotiate better carrier rates.

"We were using a third-party logistics provider and decided to take a different approach. It was all about having the benefit of bringing it in-house, cost was a factor, and the flexibility it offered. It was mainly to have control, and oversight ourselves."

Robin Watkins, Senior Logistics Manager - Beauty Pie

Case study overview

With extensive logistics operations in both the UK and United States, a scaling business, and a growing membership list, getting the delivery piece right was a top priority for Beauty Pie. It needed to to improve delivery lead times, control delivery costs, and increase their choice of carrier services.

"By giving us the stepping stone to negotiate better rates with our carriers, Scurri Connect is invaluable. The cost per shipping label is also lower, as we scale the business and grow our deliveries, the cost saving will also increase."

Unrivalled support

"Scurri has been so supportive, the account management, the personal touch, and the customer-centric aspect of it all, when it comes to carrier management systems, you would not get me looking elsewhere."

Robin Watkins, Senior Logistics Manager Beauty Pie

"Our lead time has improved absolutely massively, and Scurri Connect is a big part of that. We are looking at a reduction in the time it takes to get parcels to the West Coast of three or four days."

Company Story

Beauty Pie is a membership-based eCommerce business that offers its customers luxury beauty products at affordable prices. The company's mission is to democratise the luxury beauty industry by disrupting the business model of mainstream brands. Founded in 2016, Beauty Pie sells products from leading third-party labs, cutting out the middleman by creating their own formulas and using the same raw materials as the bigger players, directly from suppliers.

Originally focused on monthly membership, the business has evolved into an annual buyers club, and continues to evolve as it grows. Operating solely from its eCommerce website, and by keeping overheads low, the company can focus on offering high-quality products at lower prices. Its logistics operation is based from depots in Milton Keynes and New Jersey.

Solution overview

For Beauty Pie, the sheer scale of the United States added greater complexity to the management of delivery, and customer experience, across such a vast territory. However, the ability to add more carriers, and set shipping rules within the Scurri Connect platform has allowed it to manage its logistics network more efficiently.

In terms of the impact of adopting Scurri Connect, the company has seen a marked improvement in its order processing and delivery speed, resulting in a better customer experience. It has also experienced cost savings, better carrier rates, and improved system reliability.

"When an order is created in our Order Management System, Scurri Connect sends a shipping label back to us immediately, then we transit that through the API to our warehouse, and they print it off, and apply it straightaway. We are customerdriven, and the reason we wanted to have a better solution was our delivery lead time."
